MURDER MYSTERY IN TROY.

BODY OF A PRETTY SHOPGIRL TAKEN FROM THE HUDSON.

That the Met Death in Defence of Her Honor-Blows on the Head That Made Her Unconscious—Not Dead When Thrown Into the Water.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 8 .- The police of this bity are endeavoring to solve the mystery surrounding the death of a young woman. Yesterday the lifeless body of Mamie Kila pretty shop girl, was fished out of Budson River at Bath. She had been ing from her home since Wednesday, and the only trace of her that had previdiscovered was the finding of her hat on the river bank at the foot Grand street on Thursday morning. The facts in possession of Coroner Thompson and the police would indicate that the young woman met her death in defence of her or; that she was rendered unco by blows on the back of the head and taker to some house, where a wrapper was put on her in the expectation that she would When she did not regain conousness she was thrown into the river The police believe that the mystery will be cleared up within a few days. They may they have information that will establish the identity of several persons who were implicated in the affair, including two prominent men and a young woman.

Mamie Killion was employed in the laundry of Tim & Co. She left the laundry at about 3 o'clock on Wednesday afteron, in company with Mamie Glynn, another employee of the firm. Together they visited a young woman residing on Travers street near Jay street, and there spent the afternoon and evening. At 9 o'clock they departed for their homes and separated at the corner, the Glynn girl boarding a car for South Troy. Mamie Killion walked down the west side of River street after sidding her friend good night. That was the last positive trace of her alive.

Her disappearance was reported to the police and Detective Tyler began an investigation. He traced the young woman several places where she had stopped and was informed by Jack Lennon, a marketman, that early on Thursday morning a party of two young men and two young women went down Grand street toward river. He saw one of the couples rrelling and saw one of the men strike his companion several times on the head and saw her hat fall off. He described the young woman, and the description of her clothes answered those which Mamie worse on that evening. When Mamie Killion left Miss Glynn on Wednesday night she was attired in a black skirt, light waist and a black sailor hat. When the body was dragged from the river it was clad in a loose-fitting wrapper. Her brother, William Killion, went to Bath to identify the body, and on seeing the wrapper exclaimed; "Mamie never wore that, it was placed on her by the people who killed her."

The wrapper was found to be too long for her and too large around the waist. Miss Glynn, who was seen later, also declared positively that Mamie did not wear the wrapper at the time she left her on Wednesday. Coroner Thompson directed the physicians to make an autopsy, and their work disclosed positive evidence that the warper worker had been murdared. and saw her hat fall off. He described the the physicians to make an autopsy, and their work disclosed positive evidence that the young woman had been murdered. On the left side of the head were two cuts, caused by blows, one three-quarters of an inch long and the other four and one-half inches in length. An examination of the skull showed that there was no depression and no fracture. One of the physicians as and that the blows were probably made with some blunt instrument or the fist and that they were of sufficient force to render the girl unconscious. There were several bruises on the scalp, indicating rough treatment. Her body also bore traces of rough handling and her underclothing was torn. On a hat pin, which was picked up with the hat, was found a bunch of hair that had been torn from the scalp in the struggle. Death was due to asphyxiation or drowning. The physician was positive that she was not dead at the time the body entered the metalling the property of the struggle.

DE ATE" HOT AGAINST TAMMANY Lincoln League's Annual Outing Thronged Engelite Plot Spolled

The annual outing of the Lincoln League the regular Republican organization of the Eighth Assembly district, was held yester day in Ulmer Park and was attended by about 5,000 men, women and children. I was the largest gathering ever held by the league and was regarded on the East Side as a significant indication of the force of the uprising there against Tammany Hall. In the throng were many business men who hitherto have been active members of Tammany Hall. Quarantine Commissioner Charles H.

Murray, leader of the district, and Assemblyman Charles S. Adler, who have carried the district six times in succession, received at the picnic a set of engrossed resolutions by the Grand Street Business Men's Association in protest against a recent attempt to enlist them into a so-called independent Republican movement in the district which turned out to be an ill-disguised attempt by the Martin Engel Association to fomen discord in the Republican ranks. A new club, calling itself Republican, was organized about two weeks ago with the avowed intention of creating a business men's movement against Tammany Hail. Many store keepers of the district announced their intention of joining it. Headquarters were established in Forsyth street. When the club held a meeting last Wednesday night these storekeepers found in charge night these storekeepers found in charge of it three Engelites, one of them a keeper in Ludlow Street Jail, another a foreman in the Street Cleaning Department and the third a close friend of the Tammany Hall Alderman of the district. The store keepers left the meeting and it was quickly adjourned. That will end the club.

It had been arranged to hold a number It had been arranged to hold a number of athletic contests at yesterday's outing but out of respect for President McKinley these were stopped by order of Commissioner Murray. In the large dancing hall an announcement to this effect was made by Mr. Murray and then the band played softly, "My Country, "Tis of Thee."

A few minutes later when Assemblyman Adler announced that the President's condition was improved the crowd broke into yebement, applause.

Stabbed by a Stranger. Syracuse, Sept. 8 - "I'm Split, the Rip-

per," shouted a man in South Salina street and started for Dennis Sullivan, who stood and started for Festins Sullivan, who stood near. Before Sullivan realized what was going on "split" plunged a knife into him three times near the hip. At Police Head-quarters he gave the name of Fred Leddy Sullivan had never seen him before. Sulli-van will recover.

HE WEDDED A MAN.

utten Wanted a Marriage Certificate to MORRISTOWN, N. J., Sept. 8. Among the ffects of J. J. Sutton, 28 years old, who was buried on last Monday, his family found a marriage certificate which was the first intimation they had received that he was a married man. The certificate showed that on Nov. 8, 1898, Sutton had married Clara Emily Morris of Newark. the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. Judd of the Bernardsville Methodist Church. His relatives investigated and discovered that Clara Emily Morris was a young man of the name of James Williamson, now in Arizona, but formerly that Sutton had become engaged to a young woman of this city. He did not lesire to marry her and fearing that he would be sued for breach of promise he devised the plan of having a young man impersonate a woman, go through the marriage ceremony with him and secure a which he could show the young woman as the reason he could not marrier. The plan seemed to have worked The young woman died two years ago Williamson went to Arizona shortly after

Dr. Judd says he thought the young woman acted very peculiar,y when he performed the ceremony and that Mrs. Judd was sure she saw trousers under the e heavy swell that has been bothering ocal navigators in sidewheel craft and adventuresome skippers of sail yachts made a life on the ocean wave near by somewhat trying yesterday. All the fishing steamboats were unable to go to the grounds near Long Branch, and there was mighty little angling. The boats rolled in the tall, long swells, some of which occasionally combed, smashing thunderously against the wooden hulls and adding distress of many seasick women

STEAMBOATS COULDN'T LAND. Heavy Swell Too Much for Long Branch and Coney Island Boats.

The sidewheeler Columbia could land her excursionists at Long Branch, captain fearing to risk his hawsers and his ship in the rollers. She returned to New York, and all hands were told that they York, and all hands were told that they might get their money back by applying to-day at 32 Broadway.

Patrons of the Coney Island boats also were told to come around in the morning and get their tickets cashed None of the boats succeeded in making a landing at the island. Crowds that gathered at the points of departure in Manhattan to spend the last Sunday of the season at the seashore merely got a ride down to Coney Island Point and back. In the afternoon notices were posted at all the afternoon notices were posted at all the Iron Steamboat Company's piers that trips to the island had been abandoned because of "heavy seas."

FIRE SCARES CONEY ISLAND. Wind Pans Lively Blaze in Tilyou's Walk

and Firemen Can't Get Water. Policeman Kane of the Coney Island station discovered the laundry of the Oriole Hotel and bathing pavilion at the foot of Tilyou's walk afire yesterday afternoon He sent in an alarm, but before the en gines arrived a long row of bath houses were in flames and several small buildings on either side of the laundry. A heavy wind was blowing from the north, driving the flames toward the hotel itself and in the direction of Steeplechase park Twenty minutes after the alarm and ten after the arrival of the firemen, no more than two pounds pressure of wate could be obtained. In the meantime the fire was spreading in every direction, and the light frame buildings were burning like tinder. It was not until Chief Roberts went to the telephone and rang up the water company that a sufficient pressure could be obtained. A bucket brigade did good work. After nearly an hour of hard work the fire was got under control. Arkenau brothers, the owners of the Oriole baths, estimate their loss at about The Pickwick Hotel Tilyou, was damaged $700 George ( and a shooting gallery and several small buildings and stands were burned.
